

Over 80 Attend Athletic Banquet

25 Letter Winners Named By Coach Cornell

Over eighty Green Wave basketball and football players, their dads, school officials and guests attended the annual Athletic Banquet in the school basement last Thursday evening.

Following the meal, the group adjourned to see the three reels of movies. The first film was entitled, "Championship Football," and depicted the setting up of offensive play in both college and professional gridiron play. Dr. Mal Stevens, famous Eastern football mentor, described the various methods of attack and offensive formations. The second film had Nat Holman as narrator on the subject of "Championship Basketball." The famous court coach explained the offense and defense as shown on the screen by examples and then in actual championship games. The third reel was on "Winter Sports," with many thrilling sequences of skiing, jumping, ice-boating, ski-joring and bobsliding.

Coach Cornell spoke briefly, reviewing the two seasons and introducing the boys who participated in the two sports. There were 33 members on the football squad and 28 on the basketball squad, of which 5 were seniors, 13 juniors, 10 sophomores and 19 freshmen. There were six pairs of brothers and three from one family. Harry Dick and Ernie Miller, Coach Cornell pointed out the record of football of 4 wins against 18 letter-winners, as he announced 18 letter-winners. He said that the Green Wave reached its height in the first quarter against Charlevoix, and in the second halves against Mancelona and Harbor Springs.

He announced seven letter-winners in basketball. The season's record on the hardwood was 11 won and 6 lost. The Wave players were slow starters the first half of the season, winning most of their games in the final minutes, while at the last of the year the opposite was true, Coach Cornell pointed out. He added that the team was filled with good shooters and he felt that they would make it tough on any club, but he felt that the players never developed to the point of which they were capable.

The boys who participated in one or both sports were: Seniors—Harry Miller, Edwin Carlson, Phil Keway, Richard Grimsdahl, and Leslie Goss; Juniors—Richard Miller, Charles Feldhauser, Jerry Smock, John Hanna, James Douglas, Clare Burns, Richard Bielski, Earl Rasmussen, John Rasmussen, Jerry McEvers, Clifton Papendick, Edmond Holm, and Roy Milnes; Sophomores—John Kragge, James Crawford, Carl Hanson, Robert Lozon, Claude Parkinson, Jack Richards, Axel Peterson, Jack Richardson, Richard Owens and Ernest Parson; Freshmen—Ernest Miller, James Keway, James Feldhauser, Gene Crawford, Robert Rasmussen, Victor Papendick, LeRoy Nielsen, Jack Trudeau, James Kitchen and Max Niederer. Wilfred Laurant, an eighth grader, was manager of both squads.

Other new taxes proposed and still in committee include a three mill tax on Michigan manufacturers ($18,000,000) 1 percent tax on wholesale transactions ($18,000,000) and a 1 percent tax on net incomes ($28,000,000).

The legislature has been showing more zeal in saving taxes for Michigan taxpayers than in increasing them.

A measure sponsored by Senator Harry F. Hittle, Lansing, would save Michigan taxpayers a sum each year estimated at from $100,000,000 to $207,000,000 in federal income taxes. Here is how the thrift would be achieved:

All income of a husband or wife would become a "community income," whereby the husband would report one-half to the federal government and the wife would report the other one-half. A husband's annual earnings of $3,000, taxed thus in two bills, would result in a saving of $19. For a $5,000 income the saving would be $76.

The prospect of saving $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 for the taxpayers has been greeted with cheers. Little is said about the logic of diverting some of these savings to the state treasury through adoption of a state income tax.

A state income tax, already introduced, would raise an estimated $26,000,000 annually thru a 1 per cent levy on net incomes reported by Michigan taxpayers to the federal government for federal income tax purposes. Such a levy, if adopted, would still permit substantial savings to the taxpayers under the Hittle-Bill.

Another remedy which is being considered seriously in some quarters of the legislature is to ignore the constitutional diversion of tax funds to the public schools. Rep. John Espies, chairman of the House ways and means committee, reports that the idea is receiving widespread support in both the house and the senate. This action would remove $25,000,000 in tax needs, and it might permit the state to finish construction of buildings at colleges and institutions.

Underlying cause of the financial problem is the current post-war inflation which has been mounting recently with new acceleration. Retail prices of consumer goods, rents and services rose 25 percent between mid-February and mid-March. The consumers price index hit a new high above

County To Receive $44,000 In Tax Return

Weight tax collections for the first quarter of 1947 amounted to $22,017,662.11 and vouchers for returning this money to the counties and cities of the state for use on local roads and streets are being sent to the Auditor General, Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler reports. Crawford County's share is $44,056.55, Ziegler said.

The first quarter weight tax returns ran nearly $5,000,000 above the same period in 1946, but the difference is due largely to the fact that no half-year license plates were issued this year. As a result, the third quarter weight tax collections and returns, which ran $4,093,013.86 last year, will probably be very small by comparison this year.

A total of $23,796,630.20 was collected in weight tax and returned to the counties and cities in the calendar year 1946, as follows: First quarter, $17,606,134.34; second quarter, $1,517,090.64; third quarter, $4,093,103.60; fourth quarter, $580,301.86. This probably will mean 1947 weight tax collections will exceed 1946, providing the second and fourth quarters this year are equal to the same periods in 1946, regardless of third quarter collections this year.

Parks Division Prepares
Picnic Tables Here

The last of a year's production of 1,400 picnic tables, most of them built during the winter in the central warehouse of the Conservation Department's Parks Division here, are being prepared now for distribution to state parks throughout Michigan. The tables are of standard state park pattern, of cedar timbers with varnished pine benches and table tops, in five-, six-, and seven-foot models.

The Senior Class enjoyed a wienie roast and picnic at the Pines, Monday evening. They were accompanied by Eugene Lawler.

Grayling Firms Remodel Places

Several Grayling firms have remodeled their buildings and are in the process of doing over interiors.

Dawson's reopened their doors last Saturday after being closed almost four weeks for remodeling. A new asphalt floor, new ceiling, sidewalls, lighting and heating equipment were all installed. Also a completely new soda bar and light luncheon equipment have been added. The store has been considerably enlarged by moving back the rear wall of the store. New drug counters have also been ordered that will match the new fountain equipment. That part of the work will be completed in the early fall, Devere Dawson, store manager, said.

Spike's Keg O' Nails has also undergone an almost complete remodeling program, with a new asphalt tile floor and all new chrome and leather chairs and benches, and all new tables. A new ceiling and indirect lighting have been planned for the very near future, Spike said. Another new feature is a well known picture of the leaning pine tree on the AuSable, painted by Miss Thelma Hubbell. The painting is very large and will be illuminated. Spike also plans for two more large paintings by Miss Hubbell of some local scenes.

The Welsh Motor Sales is in the midst of a large scale remodeling program, with a new large parts room, offices and show room being constructed. The changes require nearly a complete plastering job throughout with a new ceiling being added and a complete paint job throughout the building. About two more weeks will be necessary to complete the work, Fred Welsh Jr., the company manager, said.

Among other places partially remodeled and decorated are the Plaza Grill, the Legion Restaurant, which was recently bought by Frank Castle, Duncan's Meat Market, and Long's Market.

Local Girl Awarded University Scholarship

Among the 366 Michigan high school students who will receive University of Michigan Regents-Alumni Scholarships for 1947-48 is Caroline Marie Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Nelson of Grayling. Caroline is a member of this year's graduating class of Grayling High School. The award of the scholarship to Miss Nelson was announced by Erich A. Walker, director of the Office of Student Affairs and chairman of the University's scholarship committee.

The scholarships are provided by the University to help in the development of leadership and productive citizenship in all parts of the state. High scholarship, leadership qualifications and a real desire to acquire a university education are the major factors considered by the scholarship committee in making the awards.

The Regents-Alumni Scholarships provide for payment of semester fees for the freshman year at the University. Walter said, "Successful scholarship performance will permit renewal of the scholarship through the sophomore, junior and senior years."

He expressed the appreciation of the committee and the University for the work of the local school officials and the 70 University of Michigan alumni clubs in helping to select the scholarship candidates.

V-E Day

Two years ago today, the mighty struggle on the continent of Europe came to a close, with the armies of the United Nations victorious and the Axis armies totally defeated.

A scant three months following the European triumph, complete victory came to the United Nations as the Asiatic Axis partner, Japan, surrendered to the terms of the Potsdam Conference.

May 8 of each year will be a memorable date as the anniversary of the close of the struggle that was more titanic than the world had ever dreamed.

NOTICE—The Grayling Air Service has ordered another additional hangar which they are expecting in the very near future.

Another group of flying students will be started off, probably next week, it is announced. If anyone is interested in taking lessons in the near future, they should contact the flying school offices at once. It was also explained that any serviceman who had made up his mind to take flying lessons could enter an application now and take his lessons some time in the future when it is more convenient to him.

Four planes were visitors at the local port over the week-end. I. E. Smith Jr., piloting an Aircoupe, flew in to visit his friend, Otto Peterson. He is from Detroit and flew here from the Hartzell Airport. Don Gillies, Detroit Times Outdoors Editor, was a week-end visitor, flying here from Clare in his Piper Cruiser. He was weathered in at the port over Sunday. Gillies was extremely happy to find service at the port and took a number of pictures of the airport operations. E. Mooney, flying a Cessna, stopped here on a flight from Lansing to Petoskey. He also was forced to spend the week-end here because of weather conditions. The fourth plane was another Piper Cruiser, piloted by C. Dappaich, who was headed for Bay City from the Waters Airport.

He was weathered in at the port over Sunday. Gillies was extremely happy to find service at the port and took a number of pictures of the airport operations. E. Mooney, flying a Cessna, stopped here on a flight from Lansing to Petoskey. He also was forced to spend the week-end here because of weather conditions. The fourth plane was another Piper Cruiser, piloted by C. Dappaich, who was headed for Bay City from the Waters Airport.

The Grayling Air Service has ordered another additional hangar which they are expecting in the very near future.

Another group of flying students will be started off, probably next week, it is announced. If anyone is interested in taking lessons in the near future, they should contact the flying school offices at once. It was also explained that any serviceman who had made up his mind to take flying lessons could enter an application now and take his lessons some time in the future when it is more convenient to him.

COCK O' THE WALK AT SCHOOL... Nonchalant as a deb on Fifth avenue, "Mr. Jeffrey" a rooster whose feathered feet give him a reasonable facsimile of the Chaplin walk, struts down the aisle between desks at Public School 97, Brooklyn, while the students look on in wonder and admiration. "Mr. Jeffrey" is one of the group of furred and feathered tourists, making the rounds of schools in the New York area with lecturers from too.

Refinery Appoints New Merchandising Manager

Announcement has just been made by Mr. L. R. Kamperman, Vice-President, Leonard Refineries, Inc., Alma, Michigan, of the appointment of Mr. J. L. Kistner as Merchandising Manager.

Mr. Kistner's experience over a period of twenty years covers both refining and marketing of petroleum products. He is a specialist in service station merchandising and the training of service station attendants. The company plans on establishing a training school in service station management which will be under the direction of Mr. Kistner.

Leonard recently completed the construction of a new Houdry catalytic unit and has just announced a new gasoline through a newspaper and radio campaign. The newly established merchandising department will coordinate advertising with retail marketing programs.

Kistner stated, "As business soon again will be highly competitive, dealers and service station attendants will have to thoroughly school themselves in station management. What Free Enterprise Means . . .

President Truman recently gave one of the best descriptions ever made of what the free competitive system means when he said: "Under that system each man is free to go where he likes, to follow the calling of his choice, and to be rewarded in proportion to the productivity of the effort or the property he contributes."

That is an extremely accurate definition, and it covers a great deal of ground in a very few words. Under free enterprise, the man who invests capital as well as the man who invests his labor in an enterprise is entitled to whatever reward he is able to earn. Under free enterprise, every man is entitled to pursue any lawful undertaking, free of dictatorship and coercion by capital, labor, or government. Under free enterprise, the freedom of the individual must be inviolate.

Carrying the definition farther, it obviously means that government shall not unnecessarily interfere in the affairs of its citizens. Its function is to establish and enforce a set of rules to fit the conduct of our economic life—and then to permit the players in the game to do whatever they may please within those rules. If a man loses, he must accept the loss. If he wins, he has a right to the gain.

Finally, under this or any workable definition of free enterprise, government must keep out of business. Socialized enterprise and free enterprise can not long exist side by side. The first will swallow the other, and then all basic freedoms will be lost. That fact is implicit in President Truman's fine statement.

Undulant
Fever

A bill now before the Legislature, aimed to safeguard the health of rural and small town residents, principally, would prohibit sale of unpasteurized milk. The Michigan State Medical Society has approved the measure.

Reason for the proposed legislation is that drinking raw milk from cows infected with Bang's disease is the worst spreader of undulant fever, a serious ailment which is difficult to cure.

Fifteen per cent of Michigan cattle have this disease, according to public health authorities.

City residents are well protected because local ordinances in larger communities prohibit the sale of milk that has not been pasteurized, and danger of contracting the fever from pasteurized milk is practically nil.

Hogs and goats also can harbor the germs and human beings can contract the infection by merely handling these animals. For this reason, farmers, veterinarians, and packing house workers are subject to the fever from these sources. Fortunately, human beings do not directly transmit the infection to other human beings, but animals do to other animals as well as to man.

Doctors of medicine declare that cure of a patient is not certain until he has been free from all signs of the illness for at least five years. Neither penicillin nor the sulfa drugs give promise of effecting a cure and streptomycin is effective only in terminating the acute stage of the illness. A relapse usually follows use of this drug. A vaccine comes as the most effective treatment yet evolved for an uncomplicated blood infection.

"Health News" is presented by your doctor of medicine as a health service of the Michigan State Medical Society.

Closed Shop Is Like "Gun In Your Ribs"

Mass Wave of Strikes Threatened if Weapon Is Taken Away.

Threat of a "nationwide round of strikes" in the event the Wagner Act is changed by Congress was voted to members of the Senate Labor Committee in Washington by Paul M. Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board. "American workmen would so resent the destruction of rights they have so recently won that work stoppages would sweep the country," he said.

This bold statement by the head of one of the most powerful government agencies has sharpened the interest of Congressional leaders now considering proposals that labor's broad powers be curbed. And, it has recalled to the public's mind the fact that the "nationwide round" of 4,700 strikes involving 4,600,000 workers which paralyzed the nation last year occurred under the Wagner Act which was not in jeopardy.

Moreover, Herzog's reference to "rights" won by unions under the act has invited a close public inspection of what these rights may be.

Principal "right" claimed by union leaders under the act is the closed shop—a proposition which strikes at the basic right of American citizens to work and earn a living. But the act itself, gives to unions no such right. Instead, it merely permits an employer to sign a closed shop agreement with a majority of his employees. On the other hand, the Railway Labor Act specifically bans closed shop agreements, and the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act declares the policy of the United States to be that while each working man should have the right to join his fellows in "concerted" or union activities, he should also be free to "decline to associate with them."

That the closed shop "right" claimed by the unions actually represents a direct assault upon the rights of all working men is being forcefully impressed upon the people today. Already a dozen states have enacted laws prohibiting the closed shop, and others are preparing to follow suit. Their actions have been based upon the fact that any principle which compels any individual to pay for the right to work is un-American.

Moreover, state legislators have been motivated by the fact that the closed shop has enabled unions to become systems of government all their own, with laws and rules which are far more powerful in their effect upon the lives of citizens than are the laws of government itself. The closed shop, rather than being a "right" of the workman, actually is a device which sooner or later will deprive all workmen and all citizens of all their rights.

David Lawrence, nationally known editor, recently described the closed shop as "a proposition which is just about as voluntary and harmonious as the arrangement between a hold-up man and his victim who hands over his money at the point of a gun."

BILLY BRAND

YOU CAN GET BAKED BEANS WHEREVER YOU GO, BILLY!

TO THE EGYPTIANS BEANS MEANT MORE THAN FOOD—THEY WERE A SYMBOL OF ETERNAL LIFE.

JUST AS THE BEAN IS IMPERISHABLE, THE SPIRIT OF OUR PHARAOH WILL NEVER DIE.

IN MEDIEVAL EUROPE THE BEAN WAS THE STANDARD CROP. ONCE A YEAR THE MASTER GAVE A "BEAN-FEAST" FOR HIS WORKERS.

HE SHALL RULE OVER THE FESTIVITIES.

I FOUND THE BEAN HIDDEN IN THE CAKE—I'M THE BEAN KING!

EAT HEARTY, MATEY. THEY GIVE YOU STRENGTH. THESE BEANS ARE GOOD TO DO A JOB OF WORK.

AMERICAN INDIANS GREW SEVERAL VARIETIES OF NATIVE BEANS AND TAUGHT THE PILGRIMS A NEW WAY TO COOK THEM.

DROP HOT STONES IN A HOLE, PUT ON BEANS AND COVER WITH SOIL.

HE'S BAKING THE BEANS!

BAKED BEANS BECAME A POPULAR NEW ENGLAND DIET.

NOW WE ADD THE MOLASSES AND SALT PORK AND THEY MUST BAKE ALL DAY.

IT WOULD BE FINE IF THEY WERE READY FOR THE NOON MEAL.

NINETEENTH CENTURY SAILORS LIKED AMERICAN BEANS BECAUSE THEY COULD BE STORED IN A SMALL SPACE AND WERE VERY NOURISHING.

BY 1900 FOOD COMPANIES DEVELOPED THEIR OWN SPECIAL RECIPES FOR CANNED PORK AND BEANS AND GAVE THEM THEIR BRAND NAMES.

MY GOODNESS, THESE BEANS ARE DELICIOUS—AND THEY'RE SO INEXPENSIVE, TOO.

THAT'S BECAUSE ADVERTISING ATTRACTS MORE CUSTOMERS—AND IT COSTS LESS TO PRODUCE THEM IN QUANTITY.

PEOPLE HAVE VERY STRONG LOYALTIES TOWARD THEIR FAVORITE BRANDS OF CANNED BEANS.

WHOOPEE! BAKED BEANS FOR SUPPER TONIGHT.

MY MOTHER MADE BETTY, IN SOME WAYS I THINK IT IS EVEN BETTER. AND IT'S READY TO EAT IN FIVE MINUTES!

THIS IS LIKE THE KIND OF BEANS I LIKE.

Be Sure to Read SOLDIER COME HOME

By Betty Zane Watson

"Look, beautiful, when are you going to stop this bickering and get married so we can fight legally—only then we won't have anything to fight about." His slow smile caught at the corner of his mouth. Basil was only twenty-one but he had the mature handsomeness of a man in his thirties.

"And you mean by that . . . ?" Kit started to ask.

"You won't be asking for anybo' 'T."

"No, I'm afraid I can't understand anyone liking work!" He looked at her seriously.

son for everything that goes wrong between us. Admit it?" He tilted her chin up for his kiss but Kit pulled away.

"And if I do admit it? After all, Basil, I like the work. Do you understand that?"

"No—I'm afraid I can't understand anyone liking work!" He looked at her seriously. "How much longer is it going to be, Kit?"

Kit Sets Her Wedding Date

She knew the time had come. Basil wasn't asking her to name the date now as he had done so many times before. This time he was demanding it. Of course, she could refuse, or even break her engagement entirely—but for what? She tried to estimate quickly just what she really felt for this man who was to be her husband. He did not compare favorably with the childhood illusion she had held for her lover. He was certainly not brave. He was even boastful about not being inducted into the service during the war. But she defended him to herself; this was merely a front to hide his legitimate reason of a heart condition from the public. Perhaps he was braver than people gave him credit for.

When she had met him shortly after coming to Lexington, she had enjoyed his company and the many places he invited her. There were few young men in the community, stripped by the needs of war, and she considered herself lucky to have such a handsome companion. And as the months had gone on she was certain she was in love with Basil, even though at times she knew he was bad tempered and moody; he was young and would probably outgrow most of his faults. He had been more than generous to her from the first, giving her things that she had really felt she must refuse, because of their value. Life with Basil meant security; something she had never known in her life, since her parents had been separated when she was a child. Life with Basil meant money. Not that Kit was mercenary, but she and her mother had lived in poverty as well as insecurity and she had long since decided that while money does not make happiness, happiness needs money.

"Well . . . I guess the end of November—Thanksgiving would be all right." Unconsciously she counted in her mind. Today was September 4th. September, October and . . . November. Three months. Strange that the time counted for only one thing. Three months in which to know J. D.'s son. As if the thought provoked her conscience she reached over for Basil's hand. "Let's

Just a minute, there. This is important, and I intend to see her. After all, I may be a stranger, but I am her grandson." This was Sgt. Davis again. There was no longer any doubt in his mind. This was important, not only to him, but to hundreds of kids—kids that he had fought for, and he didn't intend to lose the fight now.

Evidently surprised at the character confronting him, he nodded his head. "Would you care to wait in the hall for the reply?"

Johnny stepped into the long hallway and watched the butler disappear into a room at the right. He watched him until he had closed a door between them. Finally he heard voices, and knowing also that instantly just what reply he would get, he decided boldly to follow the servant's route and at least receive the reply in person from his grandmother.

make it Thanksgiving, shall we, darling?"

It had taken Johnny some time to erase from his mind the actual reality of seeing Kit Willett with his cousin Basil. But once inside the Clarion office he managed to keep busy rewriting copy for the next day's edition. It was as if he could not give himself completely to his old work until he had settled his mind about the Park affair. Finally he pushed away the notes on which he had been working and with his head resting between his hands he planned what he should do next.

At exactly five twenty-three, he pushed back his chair, shoved his hands into his pockets and walked out of the office of the Clarion, letting the door slam behind him.

For the past two hours, sitting at his old desk on the second floor of the building, he had at last thoroughly thought things out, reaching the conclusion that there was only one way to cope with Jennifer Martin. If that failed he would have to think of another way—he and J. D. together. But he had a feeling that if he could stand face to face with his grandmother and reason with her—it would not fail! He had been taken to Martindale over twenty years ago and his grandmother had refused to see him. But things were different now. Perhaps she had even changed her own mind by this time, or at least would give him a chance to show her his side of it.

As he walked along Third Street, hurrying toward Martindale, he decided it would not take long to find out. In twenty minutes he would be there!

The road to Martindale was unusually short to Johnny, who with each step decided upon a different approach to his grandmother, Jennifer Martin. A grandmother he had never seen.

As he neared the entrance to Martindale, he looked ahead at the estate before him. It was truly beautiful, with the sunlight tangling amid the tall trees and shrubbery.

At times like these, when he stood admiring the home of his grandmother, he often wondered just what his mother had been like. J. D. had told him throughout his childhood of her beauty and understanding and courage, but if only he might have known her himself, even for a short time, he would have been more satisfied. He had never seen even a photograph of his mother, as Jennifer Martin would not permit her son-in-law to take one from her house even after Linda's death. . . .

And wondering about his mother always provoked his imagination about his grandmother—Queen Martin. Was she really as heartless as everyone said, or was she merely an old lady who thought that money could buy anything and also take anything away from those she wanted to avenge?

As he walked past the entrance gate at the foot of the hill, he resolved that soon he should know the answers to many of his questions.

Walking up the flagstone drive, he noticed the low-slung imported car starting away from the house, but did not recognize who was in it until it reached him.

As Henry Martin leaned forward in the car that stopped beside him, Johnny was instantly reminded of the still vivid picture in his mind of Basil's last words to him at the station.

"You are quite aware that this is a private drive, are you not?" His small beady eyes were on Johnny with target-like directness.

"Yes, sir, I am." He hesitated only long enough for his quick reply and walked on up the drive, leaving Henry and his chauffeur staring after him. Not looking back, Johnny finally heard the motor start and the car continuing down the drive.

When he reached the massive doorway, he had a mad desire to turn and leave before he had been refused entrance. The plan that he had mapped out so carefully down in the office of the Clarion seemed foolish and much too simple for such a difficult problem.

When his hand reached for the iron knocker, he saw that it was trembling. Was this Sgt. John Davis that had been called a fool for danger? Johnny managed a little smile as he wondered what his lieutenant would think of him now.

A tall, impressive English manservant answered his knock. The words, reluctant at first, finally managed to be heard.

"I'd like to see Mrs. Jennifer Martin."

A Call on Jennifer Martin

"I'm sorry, sir. Mrs. Martin does not see strangers." He stepped back.

Just a minute, there. This is important, and I intend to see her. After all, I may be a stranger, but I am her grandson." This was Sgt. Davis again. There was no longer any doubt in his mind. This was important, not only to him, but to hundreds of kids—kids that he had fought for, and he didn't intend to lose the fight now.

Evidently surprised at the character confronting him, he nodded his head. "Would you care to wait in the hall for the reply?"

Johnny stepped into the long hallway and watched the butler disappear into a room at the right. He watched him until he had closed a door between them. Finally he heard voices, and knowing also that instantly just what reply he would get, he decided boldly to follow the servant's route and at least receive the reply in person from his grandmother.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Where's the Argument?

You should have heard Ed Carey and Spike Miller debating the merits of Guernsey versus Holstein. Ed's our firechief, and Spike milks hardware—but to hear them argue you'd have thought that they'd been dairymen for life. Finally they put it up to Sam Carter, who breeds dairy cows in hems and haws... and concludes there's a lot to be said for Holsteins, and about as much for Guernseys... take your pick! Actually, Ed and Spike were like people arguing about—say, beer versus buttermilk. Folks who've never tasted beer will sometimes get mighty vehement about their choice of beverages. And folks who've never tasted buttermilk will be equally pig-headed.

From where I sit, it's in things we know nothing about that we get bigoted and stubborn. But when it comes to things we know a lot about, we're able to see both sides... be tolerant and reasonable... and above all, understanding.
